JACK DEMPSEY, looking cheerful and as powerful as he ever did, took a tolerant view of Mr. Tunney's dip into Shakespeare. "It's all right, if it helps his racket."

Asked whether he liked the works of Shakespeare, the Manassa Mauler replied: "Never had the pleasure."

Floyd Bennett, courageous American pilot, is dead in a Quebec hospital. Double pneumonia was the result of his undertaking, in spite of doctors' warnings, to fly to the assistance of the Bremen crew.

Lindbergh, taking pneumonia serum to his friend, Floyd Bennett, hopped off from Long Island yesterday afternoon as casually as you would walk to the nearest drug store.

The mother of Capt. Wilkins, who flew over the North Pole recently, is "glad my boy, George, has done what he set out to do. We mothers don't say much, but we feel a lot."

Mrs. Wilkins thinks her son "made more of what he learned in a little country school than many men have been able to make of a college education." He built character in that little school.

The public school is the American school of real opportunity.

Have you horses or cows? Ask P. M. Woolley, builder and head of the American Radiator Company, about his development of a vacuum cleaner for horses and cattle.

This writer, after tests, finds that the vacuum process cleans horses and cows to perfection better, more quickly and economically than could be done by hand.

All dust, including the hair, is carried into a receptacle by air current. Horse barns and cow stables can be kept in perfect order; production of clean milk made easier by the new method. And grooms no longer are obliged to breathe in dust as they clean the animals. Those that can afford the machine should use it, and in dairies of any size its use should be compulsory—it takes disease-breeding flies with it.

The German Lufthansa, greatest commercial flying enterprise on earth, intends to build a hydroplane able to land on and start from the roughest water.

Henry Ford has announced his intention to spend at least a million dollars on one airplane, to carry 12 engines, 100 passengers and a machine shop, and to cross the ocean and go on half way around the world without landing at all.

These are days of useful, exciting competition. The French Academy of Science announces a new steel infinitely harder than any known hitherto, to be used for automobile and flying machine parts.

Germany announces production of a new metal, 40 per cent lighter than aluminum, strong enough for the manufacture of all-metal planes.

Ambassador Howard from Great Britain says war between his country and America is unthinkable, would ruin and starve millions.

Unfortunately, modern, half-civilized nations, which means all nations on earth, rush into war as savage men rush to fight, without thinking of consequences.

A nation is always less civilized than the individual citizen, because it is largely controlled by the mob spirit.

Individuals free their slaves, pension old workers, and provide

HURLED FROM CAR AT DAYTONA, SPEEDING 200 MILES AN HOUR

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 25 (AP) — Frank Lockhart, noted automobile racer, was killed almost instantly today when he lost control of his machine while racing down the beach at more than 200 miles an hour to beat the world record set by Ray Keech of 207.55 miles.

Lockhart had made three fast trips in his Stutz Blackhawk Special and was approaching the grandstand on the fourth when his car appeared to hit a soft spot in the sand.

It turned endwise several times, leaped high into the air and made several barrel rolls before landing. Lockhart was thrown out face downward upon the sand.

FIVE BURNED IN MALDEN BLAST; 60 GIRLS ESCAPE

Five men were burned, one probably fatally, and 60 girls were thrown into a panic which resulted in a number falling downstairs, when an explosion occurred today in the paint and varnish plant of the Woodworth-Holland Co., Lowell st., Malden.

Six of the girls were given medical treatment for sprains, bruises and nervous shock. No fire loss was the excitement that the blast was closed out the day after the fire, resulting from the explosion, had been extinguished with only slight damage.

Charles Gaillard of Wellington, showered with burning fluid, was taken to Malden Hospital. His name is on the danger list.

Louis Sexton of Oakland st., Malden, was burned painfully on the neck and face. Several other men suffered minor burns and were sent home.

The girls treated by physicians were:

DEMPSEY-KEARNS SUIT NEAR COLLAPSE

New York, April 25 (AP)—The almost complete collapse of the suit brought by Jack Kearns against Jack Dempsey was indicated today when Federal Judge John C. Knox declared he "had in mind throwing out clauses two, three and four in Kearns' charges."

These involved over $500,000 of the approximately $700,000 sought by the boxer's former manager under their old contract.

The sudden statement of Judge Knox caused a flurry in the crowded United States District Court room and resulted in adjournment of the trial at noon until 2 p. m. for a conference between the judge and attorneys.

The parts of Kearns' case threatened with being quashed before going to the jury deal with his effort to recover a percentage of Dempsey's earnings for the latter's first fight with Gene Tunney in Philadelphia in September, 1926.

The contract under which Kearns claims his share of the money expired in August, 1926.

The first clause in Kearns' claims, dealing with the proposed Willis-Dempsey fight that never occurred and seeking the recovery of $150,000, was dismissed yesterday.

The fifth and remaining clause, which may be the only one to go to the jury for decision, involves

READING'S DEFENSE OPENS

The prosecution's case against Atty.-Gen. Arthur K. Reading closed today and the Attorney-General's defense of his conduct in office will begin before the legislative committee.

Atty.-Gen. Reading was not expected to take the stand before tomorrow morning.

His first witness was Joseph D. Webster, former Dedham Club electrician and a previous witness summoned by the prosecution. Webster made a general denial of testimony that Reading had threatened Hugh B. Mockler and told him he could convict him before any lawful inquests jury and advised him to "take a vacation."

The prosecution, which occupied three and a half weeks of hearings, closed its case with an affidavit made in Palestine by Louis A. Wolfe, president of the United L.

FLOYD BENNETT, FLYING ACE, DIES OF PNEUMONIA IN HOSPITAL AT QUEBEC

Quebec, Que., April 25 (AP)—Floyd Bennett, who flew over the North Pole with Commander Richard E. Byrd, died at 10:50 A. M. today from double pneumonia.

Bennett's death came while his wife was near him, herself a patient in the same hospital with tonsilitis.

His closest friend, Commander Byrd, was also there, having cancelled all engagements and rushed to Quebec as soon as Bennett's condition became serious.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was also in Quebec, having flown here from New York last night, carrying anti-pneumonia serum in a gallant but vain effort to save Bennett's life.

though both of them had to leave sick beds. After Bennett's cold turned into pneumonia and he had to drop out of the expedition Balchen pushed on without Bennett.

Bennett's condition became increasingly serious as the days and hours passed and at 10 o'clock this morning specialists brought here to tend him from New York announced that everything was in vain and that he was dying.

Fifty minutes later he passed on.

BURIAL IN BROOKLYN

It was announced several hours after Bennett's death that burial will be in Brooklyn, where the aviator lived, on Sunday. It was said that the body will be sent to New York tomorrow on a special car and will be dressed in Bennett's aviation costume. For burial full naval uniform will be worn.

Mrs. Bennett's mother, Mrs. Mary Bresnyer of Waterbury, Vt., was notified that the train would leave Quebec at 1:30 p. m., and it was expected that she would join her daughter in the private car at some point near her home and continue to New York.

Bennett, a "Grease Bail," Discovered by Byrd

New York, April 25 (AP)—Floyd Bennett, born in Warrensburg, N. Y., in 1890, was for the first 25 years of his life an obscure figure, whose potentialities awaited only the opportunity for development.

That moment came in 1925 when Commander Richard E. Byrd was given the pick of the whole navy from which to choose mechanics for his Greenland expedition with Donald MacMillan.

Byrd "discovered" Bennett, an unknown aviation mechanic aboard a man-of-war, a navy "grease ball," indistinguishable from his fellows under the smear of oil that was the garb of his profession.

"But once he had his chance," Byrd writes in his recently published book, "Skyward," "he showed he was a good pilot and one of the finest practical men in the navy for handling an airplane's temperamental mechanisms.

"And above that, he was a real man, fearless and true—one in a million."

From the moment that Byrd's keen eyes penetrated the film of grease coating the grubby mechanic and found a man the two were inseparable. To think of Byrd was to think of Bennett, and vice versa, and therefore much of the material that throws light on the sort of person Bennett really was must of necessity come from Byrd.

Together Bennett and Byrd endured the hardships of Greenland and a year later they flew over the North Pole.

As soon as the pole had been crossed Byrd told Bennett that an aerial crossing of the Atlantic was his next aim and Bennett asked to be taken along.

On April 16 of last year the Fokker plane America crashed on its initial test flight and Bennett was so seriously injured that he could take no part in the flight to France.

Bennett had superb control of his emotions, but during that test flight, realizing that the plane was nose heavy, he gave the only sign of nervousness he ever displayed. That sign, Byrd said, was to lick his lips.

This plane, under the guidance of Anthony Fokker, landed at 80 miles an hour and turned over. All but Fokker were injured. Bennett by far the most seriously. He was hanging upside down in the wreckage of the pilot's seat, his leg smashed, blood pouring over his face, blinded with oil. Bennett believed he was dying, but his first thought was of his companions.

"We heard a strained voice," says Byrd, "crying, 'Look out for fire.' "It was Bennett, the man in a mil-

Bennett Felt He Was Going to Die on Flight North

Detroit, April 25 (INS)—Last Friday about a minute before he climbed into the Ford relief plane for the flight to Greenly Island, Floyd Bennett declared he felt he was going to die:

"I feel rotten," he said. "I feel like I'm going to die and I don't care if I do."

Bennett has been treated in a Detroit hospital just before taking off.

tion; Bennett, fearless and true."

Bennett was on a lecture tour when the chance came to go as chief pilot of New York city's official relief plane to aid the transatlantic fliermen. He had a severe cold, but nothing could stand in his way.

Bennett and Balchen, who also left a sick bed to go with the relief party, flew to Detroit in one of Byrd's South Pole planes. They were put to bed in the Ford hospital, but would not stay. On April 20 they took off in a Ford plane for Murray Bay and made the 600 miles in about nine hours.

But Bennett's cold developed into pneumonia, resulting in his death.

Bennett enlisted in the navy December 15, 1917, and continued as an enlisted man until his appointment as a warrant officer May 4, 1925. His first enlistment was at Burlington, Vt. He received an honorable discharge July 30, 1919, but re-enlisted the following day.

In 1923 he took part in the MacMillan polar expedition and on November 17, 1925 was commended by the Secretary of the Navy for "efficiency, indefatigible energy and courage while engaged on duty with that expedition."

His Distinguished Service medal was presented by the President.

Mother Heart-Broken by Death of Air Hero Son

Lake George, N. Y., April 25 (AP)—Mrs. Hezekiah Bennett, mother of Floyd Bennett, was prostrated with grief today when she learned of her son's death in a Quebec hospital.

"He was my only hope and I have nothing more to live for," she sobbed.

The news of Bennett's death was broken to his aged mother by a correspondent of the Associated Press and Commander Philip Cable of the Lake George Post of the American Legion, in her humble little home on the outskirts of this village.

Commander Caldwell asked if she Legion Post, of which the aviator was an honorary member, could be of any service to the mother. She replied: "I would like to have him brought home to me so that I can see him once again before they lay him away. Can't you do something to help me?"

Bennett Held 2 Highest Awards for Air Services

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Floyd Bennett was the holder of two of the highest awards within the gift of the American government, the congressional medal of honor and the distinguished service medal.

The medal of honor was awarded "for distinguishing himself by courage and intrepidity at the risk of his life as a member of the Byrd Arctic expedition and thus contributing greatly to the success of the first heavier-than-air craft to the North Pole and return."

The distinguished service medal was awarded "for exceptionally meritorious service to the government, his courage and ability contributed largely to the success of the first heavier-than-air craft flight to the North Pole and return."

Flying Pal's Grieve Over Death of Floyd Bennett

Mitchel Field, N. Y., April 25 (AP)—The air pilots at the Long Island flying fields were grief-stricken today over the death of Floyd Bennett. He was regarded as one of the greatest bird men in the country.

Bennett May Be Buried in Arlington Cemetery

Washington, April 25 (AP)—The Navy Department today telegraphed the American consul in Quebec asking him to learn Mrs. Floyd Bennett's wishes as to burial of her husband.

Bennett may be buried at Arlington or at any national cemetery, if his widow so chooses.

Bennett Was 'Real Man,' Declares Comdr. Byrd

LINDY STARTS RETURN FLIGHT TO NEW YORK

Quebec, April 25 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off on his return flight to New York at 11:20 this morning.

Lindbergh was unaware of the death of Floyd Bennett, whose life was the purpose of his air race here with serum to aid in combatting the pneumonia from which Bennett suffered.

Lindbergh had left the city for Bartlefield Park, which he had used as a landing field, before word came from the hospital.

He flew over the city before heading for New York and his plane crossed directly over Jeffery Hale Hospital, where his fellow aviator lay dead.

John D., Jr., Sends Widow Message of Sympathy

New York, April 25 (AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who yesterday sent anti-pneumonia serum to Quebec with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in an effort to save Floyd Bennett's life, today sent telegrams of sympathy to his widow and to Commander Byrd at Quebec.

The wire to Mrs. Bennett said:

"I am heart-broken at the sad news that has just reached me. Your husband made a valiant fight, as he always has, but his work was evidently done. What a magnificent record he has left.

Coolidge Wires His Deep Sorrow To Mrs. Bennett

Washington, April 25 (AP)—President Coolidge today sent the following telegram of condolence to Mrs. Floyd Bennett in Quebec:

"I am deeply grieved over the untimely passing of your husband. It will be a great loss to the science of aviation. His noble and brave spirit will live in the memory of things he accomplished. My heartfelt sympathy goes to you in your sorrow."

May God comfort you in your sorrow."

To Commander Byrd, he wired: "My heartfelt sympathy with you in the loss of your brave pilot, Bennett. He died as he lived, responding to the call of duty and honor. Countless friends, known and unknown, will

Byrd Stays to Comfort Bennett's Widow in Grief

New York, April 25 (AP)—Commander Richard E. Byrd declined the offer of friends today to send a plane to bring him back from Quebec, where he was at the deathbed of his North Pole comrade, Floyd Bennett, because he wanted to be near Mrs. Bennett in her time of grief.

"I am going to stay with my very good friend's wife," he said in a telephone conversation with his Antarctic expedition office here, "and I shall remain with her until she is back at home."

LEADERS PAY TRIBUTES TO DEAD FLIER

Gov. Fuller, Mayor Nichols, Rear-Admiral Andrews, other prominent men, and fliers in the Army, Navy and commercial fields expressed grief today over the death of Floyd Bennett and lauded him and his aviation achievements in highest terms.

Following are some of the tributes:

GOV. FULLER—"It is too bad the life of Floyd Bennett, a splendid aviator and man, could not have been spared for additional worthwhile accomplishment. He had made a name for himself in aviation history and had a bright future to look forward to in that progressive profession."

MAYOR NICHOLS—"I am deeply grieved to learn of the death of Floyd Bennett. Aviation has lost one of its greatest figures."

REAR ADMIRAL ANDREWS, commandant of the First Naval District: The death of Floyd Bennett is a great loss to aviation and a special loss to the Byrd Antarctic expedition, of which he was to be second in command, and Byrd's principal dependent for the aviation preparation. His death resulted from the unselfish desire to help others.

Chicago, April 25 (INS)—"I don't think Floyd ever had a chance to recover from pneumonia. He has been living with a four-inch hole in his lung since the crash of the America. Floyd's nose lungs just couldn't hold out."

This was the statement made here by Comdr. Eugene F. McDonald of Chicago, who took Bennett on his first trip to the Arctic.

PILLSBURY PLOT IS LAID TO HIS 'DAUGHTER'

Besides disclaiming Mrs. Sophia Mildred Linten of Roxbury as his daughter, Samuel L. Pillsbury accused her and her husband of "driving him to his grave," according to deposition testimony read today in Middlesex Probate Court, where Mrs. Linten is trying to prove herself Pillsbury's daughter and heir.

Pillsbury, when an aged man, said the Lintens were trying to get all his money, one witness stated, and several declared he complained of being cruelly beaten by the husband.

Leaving papers for safe keeping with Mrs. Beadie Howe of Hartford, Vt., formerly of Wilmington, Pillsbury said, according to a deposition by Mrs. Howe:

"These papers will prevent my property from falling into Mildred's hands. She thinks she is my daughter, unless she has found some writings in my chest. If anything happens to me, take the papers to my brother, Dr. Pillsbury, in Lowell."

"SHE WAS BOSS"

The same witness stated that Pillsbury told her that "all the Lintens wanted from him was his money and they got it."

"He said that Mr. Linten wanted to be decent but that Mildred was the captain of the ship and everybody had to dance at her whistle."

Pillsbury left the house crying after an altercation with Mrs. Linten, according to George F. Howe, husband of Mrs. Bessie Howe, in another deposition.

"Pillsbury said Mrs. Linten was his adopted daughter, not his real daughter," testified James A. Smith, a barber, of Columbus, O., in a deposition. "He said the Lintens didn't treat him right and he wasn't getting his mail while with them so he had it come to my address.

LENT THEM $30.

"The old man said he paid $20 a week board to the Lintens and had lent them $30 which he said might just as well have been called a gift."

A witness in person was John Dix Pillsbury of Stoughton, son of Pillsbury's wife and adopted son of Pillsbury. He told of Mildred's arrival at the house as a year-old baby and said Jo and his two brothers always knew she was not their blood relation.

"My mother was very much attached to her," he testified, "Mildred occasionally caused trouble in the house."

Pillsbury, when about 80, was forced to entertain his friends in the basement of the Linten home, according to Atty. Henry G. Bunn of Columbus in a deposition. Bunn told of threatening to thrash Linten.

George A. McFarland, St. who was Pillsbury's "pal" in Columbus, said Pillsbury told him "living with the Lintens was hell on earth." He said Mrs. Linten called the man she now claims was her father, "an old fool" and "a drunken bum."

In presenting the check, Gov. Fuller said:

Grant, 90 Appleton st., Everett; Mabel Maxim, 178 Pleasant st., Wakefield; Josephine Brady, 27A Marshall ave., Medford, and Rose Yassin, 122 Hancock st., Cambridge. They were all sent to their homes in automobiles.

The explosion took place on the top floor of the firestory structure, main building of the plant. The office is also located on this floor, employing about 60 girls, with a total of 200 employes in the plant.

According to the police, the explosion took place in a vat of chemicals used in the manufacture of lacquers.

No information could be obtained from company officials as to the cause of the detonation, which shook the building, and sprayed burning fluid about the room.

Coulliard, who was near the vat, was covered with flaming liquid, and ran screaming from the room. Dawson and several other men employed in the room escaped the full force of the explosion, but were severely burned.

While fellow workmen were going to the aid of Coulliard, the girls in the office, frightened by the explosion, rushed for the doors.

The main rush was toward the stairs, where some sustained sprains and bruises. Others made for the fire escapes, where one girl lost her footing and fell.

In the meantime, in the room where the explosion occurred, the heat set off the sprinkler system. The Malden firemen extinguished the flames with foamite. It was decided to close the plant for the day.

INNES' DEFEAT ACCLAIMED BY SHATTUCK

nort to the machine, thinking thereby to gain political advantage or other preferment.

"I congratulate the voters of the 11th district. For this victory we owe much to the direct primary. Greater use should be made of it.

"The unauthorized circulation of alleged ward captains' petitions by Innes workers and numerous other tricks failed to fool the voters."

Out of comparative obscurity, a West Roxbury war veteran found himself thrust today in the victory of Watt over the once "unbeatable" Innes.

IS FRANK TELLER.

His full name is G. Gordon Watt of 123 Wren st., West Roxbury, teller in the Commonwealth Security National Bank on Milk st., and the choice of the voters of the 11th district as Hoover-pledged delegate to the Republican National Convention.

Watt's victory came as a bitter blow to the Innes forces, while the victory of Parkman in the same district had been half-expected as the sweep of Massachusetts by Smith and Hoover.

Today at the bank, where he presides back of his teller's wicket, Watt, a former English High School football star, spent a busy hour or two receiving congratulations and being photographed and interviewed, before he begged off courteously but firmly on the plea that he had his day's work to perform and that he owed the duty to his employers.

Then, briefly, he told of his successful campaign.

"The strange part of it is," he said, "that I never have had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Innes.

"So far as our campaign was concerned, we conducted a clean one by radio and at political meetings. At no time were there any personal attacks.

"I am pledged to Hoover and I will go through with that pledge. That's all now, boys, please. I've got to get to work."

In the 11th district battle, the youthful "dark horse" defeated Innes, 7082 to 6077. Parkman, running mate of Watt, polled 8955 votes, while Walter H. Meins, running mate of Innes, was able to corral only 5909 ballots.

Smith was so overwhelmingly the Democratic choice that the votes given Thomas J. Walsh, Reed, Ritchie, David I. Walsh and McAdoo could be placed in the complimentary class. Smith polled better than 93 per cent of all Democratic votes cast in the State.

DELEGATES-AT-LARGE

The G. O. P. delegates-at-large elected are William M. Butler, chairman of the party's national committee; Senator Frederick H. Gillett, former Governor Channing H. Cox, Ezra S. Draper, Pauline F. Thayer, Minnie R. Dwight and Grace H. Bagley.

The delegates-at-large to the Houston convention are Senator David I. Walsh, former Mayors James M. Curley and Andrew J. Peters, Dist. Atty. William J. Foley, Gen. Charles H. Cole, Joseph B. Ely, Helen A. MacDonald and Edward J. Kelley.

In the Republican ranks President Coolidge and Governor Fuller received many votes despite the statements of each that he was no candidate.

In the various towns throughout the state the Smith and Hoover slates, respectively, were so universally acknowledged beforehand that many of the voters amused themselves by writing in the names of Col. Lindbergh and local celebrities.

COAKLEY ELECTED.

Late returns, although still incomplete, indicate the election of Daniel H. Coakley, Richard H. Long, Harold Williams, Jr., and Charles J. O'Malley as Democratic delegates in the 13th district, where the contest was hot. Coakley led one group of four. Long led another.

A 22-year-old school teacher was elected a Democratic delegate to Abington and he may be the youngest delegate at the Houston convention. He is George F. Ahearne, running in the fourteenth district, and he will participate in a presidential nomination before ever having cast a vote in a presidential election.

There was a last-minute upset in the sixth district where, in the Democratic contest, Judge Edward H. O'Brien of Marlborough nosed out James J. Gaffney of Danvers by 19 votes, Gaffney being the only defeated member of his group and O'Brien being the only successful opposition candidate. The other delegates are Davis J. Sullivan of Salem, Lot F. McNamara, Jr., of Haverhill, and John J. McCarthy.

Breaks Skull in Fall

James Bartlett, 67, a painter, of Paddock st., West Roxbury, suffered a fractured skull today in a 30-foot plunge from a staging in an alcove of a Pinckney st., Beacon Hill, house. He was taken to the Haymarket Relief Hospital.

MRS. SOPHIE MYERS

Elected alternate delegate to Republican national convention on ticket with Parkman and Watt in 11th district.

LOCKHART, CAR RACER, KILLED

He was breathing heavily and bleeding from the mouth and about the head when the spectators got to him. Physicians at the hospital where he was taken said he probably died a few minutes after being thrown from the car.

On his first run Lockhart had been clocked at 147 miles an hour. The return trip was made at a speed of 132 miles. Starting south on the beach again the machine's speed was timed at 293.45 miles.

On the final trip it was apparent that Lockhart was making more than 300 miles an hour when he went out of control about 500 yards south of the beginning of the mile stretch directly in front of the grand stand.

Lockhart's machine was demolished.

The car in which the famous speed king met his death was one in which he plunged into the ocean here on February 22 but while making an attempt to set a world's record during the annual speed trials held during the annual speed trials.

Mrs. Lockhart was one of the two hundred spectators in the stand who witnessed the accident. She was among the first to reach her husband's side. She became hysterical. She was placed in the same automobile which took her husband to the hospital and became more hysterical when doctors pronounced him dead.

Lockhart was said to have held every American record from one to one hundred miles on circular courses. He also held the world's straightaway record for 91½ cubic inch displacement motors which was set at the Dry Lake, California, course in 1927 when he made 161 miles per hour.

Race Driver, 26, Had Great Speed Record

Indianapolis, April 25 (AP)—Frank Lockhart, race driver killed today during a speed trial at Daytona Beach, was 26 years old and was born at Dayton, O. He moved to Los Angeles, Cal., with his parents when he was a small boy.

Lockhart entered the sport of automobile racing as a driver in dirt track races. He came with other race followers to Indianapolis for the 500-mile contest in 1925. A few days before the race the illness of Peter Kreis left one of the cars without a pilot and Lockhart was given the place. He qualified the car in record time and then won the race.

Several months ago, Lockhart set a speed record on the dry lake bed at Lake Muroc, Utah.

HOOVER SURE TO WIN, SAYS SENATOR MOSES

Washington, April 25—[illegible] to Secretary Hoover's victory in the primaries, Senator Moses (Rep.) of New Hampshire said today:

"Secretary Hoover is now free to begin work upon his speech of acceptance. His sweeping victory in Ohio and Massachusetts, together with the known supporters whom he has in the Pennsylvania delegation, making his nomination an early certainty in the Kansas City Convention and probably on the first ballot."

FULLER URGED TO SPEAK FOR HOOVER IN INDIANA

James Good, national chairman, and other Hoover leaders, today wired Gov. Fuller requesting him to go to Indiana if only to deliver one speech at the State capital to aid the Hoover campaign in that state. The governor was also visited by John Richardson, Hoover campaign organizer in Massachusetts, who thanked him in behalf of the secretary of commerce, for his endorsement.

WOMAN KILLED BY TRUCK IDENTIFIED IN CAMBRIDGE

The woman who died at Cambridge City Hospital from injuries suffered when she was struck by a truck in Kendall sq., was identified today as Mrs. Mary Faulkner, 19 Silloway st., Dorchester, 56 years old. The truck driver, Daniel Rego, of Hampden, Ct., was to be arraigned on charges of manslaughter and reckless driving.

LOWELL PRIMARY VOTES COST CITY 77 CTS. EACH

Lowell, April 25 (AP)—Each vote cast here in the Presidential primaries cost the city 77 cents, it was disclosed today. The most of the election was approximately 14000, and 7865 votes, 23 per cent of the total registration, was cast.

HOOVER, SMITH GAIN IN VOTES OF 3 STATES

Washington, April 25 (AP)—To all appearances primary voting in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts has strengthened Secretary Hoover and Governor Smith of New York as contenders respectively for the Republican and Democratic presidential nominations.

Hoover, in face of a nation contest, captured 21 of the 24 delegates from Ohio. His managers claim he will have more than a score of Massachusetts delegation of 36 and hope on the showdown in and the 79 uninstructed delegates from Pennsylvania, headed by Senator [illegible] Mellon.

Michigan Republicans have instructed the 24 delegates for Hoover from the Smith camp comes the prediction that at Houston the New York Governor will have the Massachusetts delegation of 36 to a man, with all but a few of Pennsylvania's 76 delegate votes, or 60 of the 48 delegates representing Ohio.

Smith made a bid for the Ohio delegation, which, with the possible exception of one man, will line up for former Sen. Atlee Pomerene on the first ballot.

In the preferential voting in Ohio, Smith run far ahead. No names were listed on the ballot, but all those written in the Governor early day had index as many as the entire field combined. Included in that group were Pomerene, Governor Donahey, who is not an active presidential candidate, and Reed of Missouri.

Hoover in the preferential vote in Ohio forged far ahead of the late Senator Willis, who received many votes despite his recent death. The names of both were on the ballot. Those of Dawes and Lowden were not, but several thousand Republicans wrote them in.

In Kansas the Democrats in convention instructed their delegation of 20 to support Representative Ayres, only Democrat from Kansas in Congress, for the presidency. Adherents to Senator Reed of Missouri had laid plans to capture the delegation and there were indications that Smith followers aided the Ayres "favorite son" movement.

Cry Babies of Business

Jones has been "handed a rotten job the boss should have done." He has a secretary "so dumb she makes the waste-basket seem eloquent." And he's always "getting it in the neck for something that isn't his fault."

Not very easy to work with, these cry babies of business. Selfpity, bad temper, and never quite enough drive to put things through. The boss wonders whether things wouldn't run smoother without them.

Nine out of ten probably realize that they're in bad condition physically. But they don't realize the way out.

THEY'VE tried ordinary laxatives, from health foods that take a month to act, to cathartics that leave them weak and shaken. Naturally they don't like them. And naturally they are a little puzzled over the answer to their own problem . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

You don't swallow it hastily—you chew it, exactly as you would a delicious bit of chewing gum. And as you chew, its tasteless, yet almost magically effective laxative principle begins to mix with the mouth fluids and actually becomes a part of the digestive process!

So, instead of striking the body a blow without warning, as it were, Feen-a-mint gently helps the system to help itself!

Results are amazing. A new vitality and a sense of fitness—a fresh, clear-eyed, up-in-the-morning-early feeling, as hundreds of thousands of men and women know. You will find this wonderful laxative at your druggist's now. Take a Feen-a-mint tablet at any time, confident of feeling a different person in six to eight hours.

DORCHESTER MANHOLE COVER SHOOTS INTO AIR

A number of persons narrowly escaped injury in Dorchester today when a manhole cover at Washington and Monitrie sts. suddenly shot 20 feet into the air. The roar of the explosion could be heard for several blocks and when the heavy iron was lifted by the blast, a column of fire and smoke followed from underground. A police detail was rushed to the scene from the Fields Corner station and workmen were sent to determine the cause of the explosion.

'Flying Baron' Sees Dreams Come True

Herewith is the seventh chapter of the personally written narrative of Baron von Huenefeld.

By BARON GUNTHER VON HUENEFELD
Commander-in-Chief of the German Junkers Airplane Bremen on Her Transatlantic Flight

Written exclusively for the Hearst newspapers.

Copyright, 1928, in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Germany, South America and Cuba by the New York American, Inc. Copyright for Germany by August Scherl, G. M. B. H., Berlin. Reproduction in whole or in part absolutely prohibited. Violation of copyright will be vigorously prosecuted.

Greenly Island, via Point Amour, April 25—We now begin to see the fruition of our dreams, the taking off from our island home and the journey in our Bremen to New York.

A relief aeroplane has arrived from the aerodrome of the Canadian Transcontinental Airways at Lake St. Agnes, bringing the repair pieces and the hemot essential to the continuation of our flight and, after its arrival, our Arctic flying headquarters became a hive of work, as we made our preparations for the flight to continue.

It is our hope, as this is written, to proceed along the coastal route of the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, halting briefly at the Lake St. Agnes hangars to replenish our supply of benzol, perhaps to spend a night, after which we will continue on a direct flight to Mitchel Field.

TO REVEAL FACTS

Once we have reached civilization there are many things which I wish to comment upon in the continuation of my story of our flight across the ocean, the facts which have been revealed to us, and the bearing of those facts upon the future of aviation and of transatlantic flights.

Many interesting things are discovered, but these must be kept for consideration at greater length in the near future. There is much that I wish to say about the motors to be used in these matters.

At some early date I also wish to treat generally the whole subject of transoceanic flying and its present day feasibility. But these must wait a more favorable opportunity, until we have paid our farewell to our good friend, Lecompiler of the lighthouse, and have made our flight to our original destination.

OVERJOYED

We are overjoyed at the prospect of being able to continue by air. In moment of depression, while Fitzmaurice was away in search of repairs and fuel, we have seen the picture of an ingenious finish to our adventure and the arrival in civilization by some other means than our beloved Bremen.

The belief that now exists that we shall soon be lifting our craft from the ice of the straits and be on the wing toward New York is a source of great joy and satisfaction to each of us—a fitting termination to this first east-to-west flight in an aeroplane and the only satisfactory mode of arrival at our destination.

Until tomorrow, then I must leave these discussions, as by that time I have every hope that the fulfillment of our dream will be drawing near.

(Chapter eight of the Baron's own story will appear in the Boston Evening American tomorrow).

STEAMER LEFT ADRIFT AT SEA AS HAWSER PARTS

Norfolk, Va., April 25 (AP)—Leaving the American steamer Western Ocean helpless at sea and nearly 100 miles further from shore than she was when she wirelessed for aid Thursday, the Coast Guard cutter Chrysalsett, which this morning lost her tow through the parting of a hawser, started for Norfolk to secure food and fuel. The Western Ocean is nearly 300 miles off Cape Henry.

BREMEN READY TO RESUME FLIGHT

the Bremen here for some time and to start tomorrow with the machine so very kindly sent by the mayor of New York.
HUENEFELD.

Lake Sto. Agnes, Que., April 25 (By the Canadian Press)—Messages received today from the marooned transatlantic fliers on Greenly Island stated that softening ice had caused them to abandon their hops of flying to Murray Bay in the Junkers monoplane Bremen and that they would leave the island in the Ford relief plane piloted by Bernt Balchen.

The message was received here at 11 o'clock and at that time the fliers had not yet hopped off. The plane in which they will come here is the one flown here from Detroit by Balchen and Floyd Bennett. Bennett contracted pneumonia while the plane was here and today died in a Quebec hospital. Balchen pushed on without him.

The plane is the official New York City relief plane. It carried spare parts to the Bremen in the hope that the reconditioned transatlantic plane could continue its flight to its original destination, New York.

Wives of Ocean Hoppers Send Greetings to U. S.

New York, April 25 (AP)—The New York American today publishes a radiogram of greeting from the wives of Major James Fitzmaurice and Captain Hermann Koehl of the crew of the monoplane Bremen, who are en route to this country, to meet their husbands.

The radiogram follows:

"S. S. Ilvgden, via radio to Chatham, Mass.

"We are looking forward with keen delight to our visit to the United States of America and are counting the hours until we meet our beloved ones in that wonderful country that gave so much credit to the achievement of our husbands.

"Elfride Koehl.

"Violet Fitzmaurice and daughter Patricia."

PAINE FURNITURE CO. 14 YEARS IN PARK SQUARE

The rapid changes that have occurred in Park sq. during recent years are brought to mind by the fact that Paine Furniture Co., the pioneers of this district opened their present store there in April, 1914. Theirs was then and for a number of years, the only large building in that locality.

Most people thought it a fatal move for Paine's, but the business went steadily ahead from the start, not only proving that "if a man make a better mouse trap, though he build his house in the woods, the world makes a beaten path to his door," but also demonstrating the vision of the owners of Paine's in choosing a location in the line of progress.

WILKINS TO BE TAKEN TO NORWAY BY STEAMER

London, April 25 (AP)—The steamship Mina was headed for the ice-bound waters off Green Harbor, Spitzbergen, today, to bring Captain George H. Wilkins to Europe. The ship was ordered to approach as near Green Harbor as possible and take on Captain Wilkins and Carl B. Eielson and the airplane in which they flew across unexplored Polar regions.

It was expected to reach the mouth of Isfiord (Ice Fiord, Spitzbergen, on which Green Harbor is located, about Saturday. It was hoped that the flyers would be brought to Tromsoe, Monday, early next week.

FRANCE AND ITALY WIN IN ANTI-OPIUM FIGHT

Geneva, Switzerland, April 25 (AP)—Victory has met the efforts of Italy and France to have the control board of control of the Geneva anti-opium and anti-narcotics convention affiliated with the League of Nations. There is a possibility that the fight may be transferred to the council and even the assembly of the league.

In the balloting by the opium commission today Germany, China, Portugal, Jugoslavia, Italy and France supported the resolution. Great Britain, India, Japan and Holland voted against it. Switzerland, Siam and Bolivia abstained.

OREGON RANCHER TO GET $10,000 LEFT BY COUSIN

New Bedford, April 25 (AP)—George Wilhelm Lund, a rancher living near Heppner, Ore., will receive an estate of $10,000 from his cousin whom he had not seen for more than 40 years as the result of action taken by Judge Corbin C. Campbell in probate court, Barnstable. Following the death of Robert O. Robinson in Dennis seven years ago a long search for legal heirs was begun. Two heirs put in claims, Pedro Robinson, Farjado, Porto Rico, and Lund, but only the latter established his rights.

EVERY MUSICAL SHOW IN NEW YORK USES LUX to double the life of stockings

Silk and net costumes, organdie hats, chiffon stockings—all must be sparkling—to make this gay chorus from Ziegfeld's "Rosalie" so truly adorable! (Marilyn Miller, center.)

STOCKINGS that shimmer in the brilliant glow of the footlights—what critical scrutiny they receive! Yet often they must stand harder wear in a single night than those of the average woman receive in weeks.

Every woman knows what a problem it is to keep stockings like new—and how important, when they cost so much!

New York's musical shows face this same problem, magnified many times!

To find the safest way to wash silk stockings, different methods—various soaps—have been tried.

And the fact is disclosed that stockings washed in Lux wear twice as long!

Twice as many performances from Lux-washed stockings as from those laundered by other methods!

This means so much in dollars and cents to the producers of New York's dazzling musical shows, that each one has standardized the washing of the stockings of the cast.

So the wardrobe mistress of every musical show in New York—without exception—now specifies Lux for stockings. They buy it in the familiar blue package—Lux is never sold in bulk.

MRS. BEATRICE CONIFF

wardrobe mistress with Shubert productions. "We would use Lux if it cost $1.00 a box," says the Shubert general manager, "for Lux cuts stocking bills in half."

Mrs. Coniff adds—"Garter runs are more to be feared than any other stocking trouble. Anything which weakens the fabric must be avoided. That is why our laundresses use only Lux."

FAY ADLER AND TED BRADFORD

sensational dancers with the "Merry Malones." Ballet frills and satin skirts, alike, are kept new-looking with Lux, in the Cohan productions. No hosiery gets harder wear than the stockings danced in night after night—yet every musical show doubles the life of its stockings, saves money, by cleansing with safe, pure Lux.

WOMEN EVERYWHERE are using Lux for silk stockings, as do wardrobe mistresses. Women know rubbing with cake soap may fade colors—that many soaps (whether flakes, chips or cakes) contain harmful alkali that weakens fibres. So they make sure of extra wear with Lux.

LUX KEEPS NICE THINGS NEW-LOOKING TWICE AS LONG

how white your teeth are

Until you remove dull, "off-color" film that clouds them

Make free 10-day test to see

A FILM coat makes teeth lustreless and dull. That is what makes people think their teeth are naturally "off color." When you remove it the new way, teeth take on a brilliance that amazes. Gums grow firm and coral pink.

Here is a simple test that shows what the new way can do for you.

Stars of the stage and screen have made this test by scores. It has shown them a most important beauty aid.

This new way in tooth and gum care removes the dingy film that clouds your teeth. A film that absorbs discolorations.

Just run your tongue across your teeth. And you will feel that film. It is the great enemy of pretty teeth and healthy gums.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It forms a breeding place for germs. And germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Ordinary brushing fails in successfully removing film. Under film are the clear, whiter teeth you envy.

Now modern science has perfected an effective film combatant called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film, then removes it. It firms and protects gums; beautifies teeth quickly and correctly.

DISMISSES SUIT AGAINST R. I. BISHOP

Providence, April 25 (AP)—The Supreme Court in an opinion handed down today dismissed the appeal taken by Ephege J. Daignault of Woonsocket and 62 followers from a decision of the Superior Court which ruled against Daignault in his bill of complaint against Bishop William A. Hickey and the Catholic church corporations of 10 parishes in this State.

The bill asked for an accounting of funds collected in the erection of Catholic high schools.

This marks the end of litigation that has caused widespread comment, as it was the first time in the history of the diocese that the bishop had been made a respondent in court.

SEEK MORE PAY FOR TEXTILE WORKERS

Fall River, April 25—With a new strike of 22 box loom weavers here today, interest in the textile struggle was increased by the announcement that the United Textile Workers of America plan to start organization work in this city for an increase in wages.

Thomas F. McMahon, international president of the textile workers' organization, stated at Pawtucket he planned to send men to this city to unite the textile workers for the purpose of seeking an increase in wages in addition to the restoration of a 10 per cent reduction imposed several months ago.

McMahon stated that although the textile workers now on strike here are not affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America, his organization is "in complete accord with the workers and will do everything in our power to assist them morally."

He announced that Horace A. Riviere, an organizer of the textile workers now at Manchester, N. H., had been ordered to Fall River to begin a campaign among the workers immediately.

He said the United Textile Workers of America are desirous of doing everything possible for the New Bedford workers and are therefore suggesting that the organized textile workers of New Bedford make application for membership in the United Textile Workers of America.

The box loom weavers who went out were employed at the Elsie Silk Mill, and contended their pay had been cut 3½-cent a yard on crepe work. The company said no reduction had been made, but the weavers had been put on new work and were being paid the prevailing rate.

BETTY ALDEN PREDICTS BANNER SEASON IN MARBLEHEAD YACHTING

Notes New York Sailors Are to Finish Cruise in Historic Harbor

IT'S GOING TO BE A BIG YACHTING SEASON! THE BIGGEST, the most exciting, the most spectacular! To the mere landlubber April days, reminiscent of March's grayness, present no special allure. To him a whipping breeze and dancing wavetops spell no magic such as they do to the amateur sailor who, with spring in the offing, visions ahead sparkling days afloat. Your enthusiastic amateur yachtsman can take the most sullen, boisterous day of the year and translate a rain laden breeze and dull sky into a pleasurable midsummer picture composed in its main parts of trim yacht, sunshine, a breeze o' wind to fill snapping sails and the blue Atlantic for a racing course.

THERE ARE MANY SUCH ENTHUSIASTS HEREABOUTS. Every one of them is looking forward to a perfect Marblehead summer, just about to arrive, and forecast as the "biggest" racing season ever experienced locally. Marblehead, the yatching capital of America, is unique. There's no harbor to equal it all all up and down the Atlantic seaboard. More yachts are to be found at one time on that almost rock encircled sheet of blue water than ever gather together elsewhere. At the season's height Marblehead harbor is a veritable forest of spars, especially just about sundown of a busy race day, when the white yachts come swooping in, like so many swallows, to their moorings.

A FLOAT THERE'S SPORT FOR EVERY SIZE AND SORT OF seagoing craft. Ashore there's a charming social life and pleasant surroundings at the Eastern Yacht Club, sprawling its hospitable length on the Marblehead Neck side. Just a bit away, magnificently commanding the harbor mouth, the lively Corinthian set has a commodious clubhouse. And on the town side the Marblehead station of the Boston Yacht Club is convenient and comfortable. And with the camaraderie of the sea all three offer hospitable open house to the visiting sailormen, and women, who foregather for Race Week from Cohasset, from Scituate, from Manchester, Nahant, from Chatham and Duxbury, from Squantum and Quincy, to add numbers to Marblehead cohorts.

ONE OF THE SEASON'S BIGGEST TREATS WILL BE THE arrival of the New York Yacht Club. For the first time in several racing seasons the majestic squadron of major yachts, flying the once-starred red and blue pennant of that famous sporting organization, will drop anchor in Marblehead at the end of their eastward cruise. This in itself is sufficient to give the coming season a spectacular quality all its own. But aside from the big spectacle there's an almost continuous weekday spectacle of boat racing to give the tried and true Marbleheader a thrill. So many boats and so many races, so many "weeks" devoted to this and that competition the summer is well nigh filled to overflowing.

PROBABLY IN THE ENTIRE COTERIE DEVOTED TO SMALL boat sailing, Marblehead contains none more enthusiastic than the Charles Welches, 2d. Mr. Welch is past master of the art of handling a tiller and romping home a winner. Mrs. Welch is as adept as her husband in handling a sloop. She and Mr. Welch have just been on the Pacific coast, and everyone who follows yachting news knows what the "Live Yankee" accomplished out on the Western ocean. But to mention all the tried and accomplished yachtsmen of Marblehead would be to tell of several hundred, from little tots in their 12 footers, to the lordly owners of seagoing world wanderers of the Corsair type.

THIS EVENING, AND TOMORROW AND FRIDAY EVENINGS, friends and admirers of "The Amateurs" will be at Whitney Hall to see just how excellently that famous amateur coterie will stage and present "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney." For many a season, year in and year out, "The Amateurs" have served up excellent stage fare, so friends and admirers have every reason to expect a flawless performance each of the three evenings. A sprightly comedy with 20th century sophistications such as "Mrs. Cheyney" should provide ample scope for dramatic talents and directorial ambitions.

THIS IS THE CAST: CHARLES ARTHUR H. SAWYER. George, Walter Webling; Lady Joan, Miss Mary Howes; Lady Mary, Miss Margaret Morgan; the Honorable Willie, Malcolm Jenney; Lady Maria Frinton, Mrs. Stanwood Wellington; Mrs. Wynton, Miss Mary Sandford Lord; Arthur Dilling, Alan Hay; Lord Elton, E. Irving Lock; Mrs. Cheyney, Mrs. George E. Alcar; Mrs. Webley, Mrs. Arthur H. Sawyer; Jim, George E. Algar, and Roberts, W. V. M. Fawcett. Quite competent, individually and collectively, to carry on the "Amateurs" tradition. Alan Hay, as usual, has a double duty of stage appearance and full directorial responsibility.

ELIZABETH FRYE WHITE
Bride in home wedding tomorrow. The groom is Lawrence Clayton Warren.

MILDLY STIMULATING TO Bostonian interest in the Shakespeare Foundation was Mrs. William Lowell Putnam's tea yesterday, designed to bring before certain eminent residents of the Hub the needs of this interesting movement. Tea, served in the Putnam Beacon st. drawingroom, is always an enviable occasion to those not of it. Mrs. Putnam's intimate circle. Yesterday these intimates were served a triple treat over and above the cheery cup at 5 o'clock. They were specially bidden to meet Mrs. Fiske, Miss Crosman and Mr. Skinner, Shakespearean stars, and to listen to what Mr. Skinner had to say of the Foundation and its efforts.

WORLD CITIZENS ARE INTERESTED in its progress. A portentious Washington clique, New Yorkers of great renown and far vision, and Londoners keen to do the Bard of Avon just honors, all are devoted to the Shakespeare Foundation that aims to rebuild at Stratford-on-Avon the memorial theater destroyed by flames only a year or two ago. Locally, certain cultured ones, Midas-pursed and liberally inclined, came under the Foundation's banner last summer in satisfying numbers, after the benefit at Stillington sponsored by the British Ambassador had brought the thing to the fore.

APRIL'S CLOSING DAYS ARE not entirely bereft of romantic interest. Tomorrow Miss Elizabeth Frye White exchanges the vows of matrimony with Lawrence Clayton Warren and chooses for her nuptial environment the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Frye White, in Medford. The bride-elect is a member of the Junior League, and came out three or four years ago. A sister, Miss Charlotte White, is honor maid, and another sister, Miss Helen White, is one of the two bridesmaids, the other being Miss Dorothy Warren, sister of the bridegroom.

LYNN WORKER SAVED AFTER 'GAS' BLAST

Explosion from fumes after a gasoline can overturned today in a blood st., Lynn, automobile shop, blew Stanley Timson of Chestnut st., Lynn, beneath a car he was welding and nearly cost him his life.

Timson, his clothes afire, was rescued by a fellow worker, E. B. Woodbury, who carried him out and fell with him into a pool of water extinguishing the flames.

Firemen were called to extinguish the blaze in the garage. Timson was taken to Lynn Hospital and treated for burns about the legs.

It is believed a spark from Timson's welding instrument ignited the fumes after Woodbury had accidentally tipped over the gasoline can.

17 MILLION IN CHURCH UNION

Chicago, April 25 (AP)—Union of the Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal churches, involving 17,000,000 communicants in 45,000 churches, was predicted today by William F. Melbermott of the promotional department of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The proposal will come officially before the supreme bodies of both denominations next month. Dr. Ira Allen of Hornell, N. Y., will present a memorial for union with the Presbyterians to the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Kansas City.

There are approximately 2,000,000 church members with an added 10,000,000, including Sunday school pupils and other adherents, who will be affected if the union takes place. Should the southern branches of both denominations also subscribe to the plan it would affect almost 24,000,000 persons.

ERSKINE AT WORK ON NEW AMERICAN NOVEL

For the past three months I have been making a lecture trip through the country to get new impressions to refresh my memory of the American character."

Tonight in Ford Hall Prof. Erskine will lecture on books and what makes good books, before the members of the Boston Women's City Club.

SAYS HE HEARD DECIMO CLUB WARRANTS HAD BEEN ISSUED

A. W. Acceptance Corp. of Worcester.

Testimony regarding the L. A. W. case and the settlement which Reading negotiated between the parent company and its subsidiaries while acting as counsel for the latter, formerly general for mills, for accepted more than a week of his hearing.

In his affidavit Wolfe charged that Reading on November 10 last threatened him that unless he did not turn over the books of his corporation to the attorney-general for mills.

The affidavit was dated March 30, at Jerusalem, Palestine, before the signature of J. P. Gilman, vice-consul there, as well as Wolfe's.

AFFIDAVIT TELLS OF THREAT.

It was introduced only after strenuous objections by defense counsel had been overruled.

In it, Wolfe told how he came to Boston at Reading's behest after Inspector Mitchell had told him to call the attorney-general on a private telephone from Worcester.

"Mr. Reading threatened me with arrest if I did not give up the books that afternoon," Wolfe swore in his affidavit.

Closing the presentation of its case, counsel for the committee called Capt. Herbert W. Goodwin of the Boston police department.

Capt. Goodwin testified that a year ago he launched an investigation of Decimo Club and during the course of it he conferred with Inspector John Mitchell, who investigated the club for Reading, and with Assistant Atty-Gen. Cutter.

A letter which he received from Inspector Mitchell on June 1, a week before Reading accepted a $25,000 retainer from Decimo, was introduced and read.

In it Mitchell said "we are watching every move," and "we hardly expect to find anything of a criminal nature until such time as they are completely organized and start the Apasco."

J. V. Stewart was the first witness today.

WAS MONJAR'S SECRETARY

Stewart said he is a former rate clerk in the traffic department of the Standard Oil Company of California. In New York, for Decimo, he worked under Monjar and J. D. Webster, he said. He worked as Monjar's secretary, he said, but never had the title. He is now assisting Monjar in New York, he said.

Monjar loaned him $5000 a year ago, Stewart said, but the only gift he ever received from him was $100 at Christmas. Stewart said he knew the question had been raised whether the $5000 loaned him belonged to Monjar or Decimo. Regardless of how the New York suit against Decimo Club comes out, he will still owe $5000, he said.

Asked who was paying his expenses here, Stewart replied: "I hope the Commonwealth of Massachusetts does."

ACTED AS LOANING AGENT.

Witness said he received $11,250 from Apasco and $3053 from Decimo during 1927. He said J. D. Webster, Monjar and himself composed the executive committee of Decimo. Stewart said he was general manager of Apasco.

Q.—Were you receiving the $14,500 at the time you borrowed $5000 from Monjar? A.—That was for a personal loan in the first part of 1927. The $14,500 was for the entire year.

Stewart said he was Monjar's agent for loaning money to other men. In the fall of 1926 Monjar gave him other monies, he said, but could not say whether it was $10,000.

Witness was asked if, at the May conference in the McAlpin, he told Reading lies about the Decimo Club. He replied that he had very little to say, but "wouldn't have told him a lie."

Q.—You didn't hear any lies? A.—If I had I would have corrected them.

He said he could recall no mis statement made to the Attorney-General about the club. The exact relationship between Apasco, Drew and Decimo was truthfully explained to Reading, Stewart said.

READING SAW NO WRONG.

Reading was told at the McAlpin conference that Monjar was getting $5 from each initiation fee, Stewart testified. At the conclusion of the conference, possibly in Webster's automobile, Reading said he could see nothing wrong with the club, Stewart said.

The conversation which took place when Reading told Monjar to go on a vacation was before the 15th of July when the suit against Decimo was started in New York, Atty. Anderson brought out by questioning the witness.

Stewart testified he had been told warrants had been issued for the arrest of himself and his companions.

Q.—Did you make any inquiries about those warrants? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you find out that warrants were not issued? A.—No. I haven't found that out yet.

Q. (Rep. Davison)—Did J. D. Webster assign any reason for the payment in cash of the $25,000 that went to Mr. Reading? A.—Yes. He said that Reading was not to have a check for $25,000 in Reading's name as Mr. Reading didn't want to attract any attention in Boston by depositing a check for $25,000 from the Decimo Club.

NEVER HEARD OF SYNDICATE

Q.—Was H. L. Barrett ever counsel of record for the Decimo Club? A.—No.

Capt. Herbert W. Goodwin of La-Grange st. police station, Boston, was called as the next witness. Goodwin said that in April, 1927, he began an investigation of Decimo here and that during the course of it he consulted with Mr. Cutter of the attorney-general's office and Inspector Mitchell.

LETTER IS READ

A letter which he received from Inspector Mitchell was introduced and read by Maj. Hammond. It was dated June 1, 1927, and was as follows:

"I wish to advise you that we have learned nothing in addition to what you already know relative to the Decimo Club, but are watching every move which might be in violation of our laws. We hardly expect to find anything of a criminal nature until such time as they are completely organized and start the $5 from each initiation fee, Stewart Asasco Sales & Purchase Corp. Any additional information obtained by me will be gladly given you."

After receiving that letter Goodwin made a report to Supt. Crowley. The report was introduced. It said that Goodwin was satisfied the department had no evidence on which to proceed against the club on criminal grounds.

The witness testified he took no further action in the matter after Cutter had said to him: "This is a matter for the attorney general's office and the commissioner of corporations."

WEBSTER RECALLED

Plans for putting Reading on as the first witness were abandoned at the opening of the afternoon session. Joseph D. Webster, who was summoned by the prosecution when he appeared at the hearing, was recalled as the defense's first witness. A former vice-president of Decimo, Webster was called in rebuttal of evidence given by Stewart.

A letter dated June 10, 1927, to Webster and signed by Reading was introduced. In it Reading confirmed his acceptance of the position as Decimo counsel. In it the attorney-general reiterated that if, while acting as counsel for the club, not its officers, he discovered information that the club was violating the law he would immediately proceed for prosecution. Reading stated also that his official position should not be capitalized in any way.

TELEGRAM TO READING READ

A copy of a telegram which Webster sent to Reading from Oakland, Cal., Feb. 16, 1928, was also introduced. In this Webster offered to do all he could to "help clear up the false charges" made against Reading.

"I agreed that if Monjar lost his suit I would return $30,000 to the Decimo Club," Webster said, explaining an agreement mentioned in the message.

Some of Stewart's testimony was read to Webster and Webster gave his own version of the same statements, holding that some things Stewart had testified to as occurring at the May conference did not take place until June.

The word "crook" was not used by Reading when he said he wanted to look over Monjar, Webster said.

ARTIST MAY SUE FORD FOR TORN UP SKETCH

Budapest, Hungary, April 25 (INS)—Tibor Polya, a Hungarian artist, is threatening suit in London against Henry Ford for damages as the result of an incident involving a sketch of Ford made on shipboard. It was learned here today.

The suit, if brought, would be based upon "violation of authors rights," it was said. Polya claims to have made a sketch of Ford on the Majestic while the American manufacturer was on his way to England. He said Mrs. Ford did not like the sketch and asked that it be suppressed. Later, he claims, Mrs. Ford's secretary went to his cabin and tore up the sketch.

London, April 25 (INS)—Stanley Parker, London lawyer retained by Tibor Polya, Hungarian artist, to bring suit against Henry Ford said today that no action has been started.

"Although the suit has not been filed I believe it will be shortly," said Parker. "My client has given me authority to handle the case. The object of the suit is to receive three pictures and obtain satisfaction instead of damages. I was not informed that the sketch was destroyed, but, if that is true, we will sue for damages."

Parker refused to divulge the amount involved.

MOVE TO FREE M'DONALD WOMAN IN CANADA MURDER

Mount Vernon, N. Y., April 25 (INS)—An organized attempt to obtain the release of Julia Palmer McDonald, who is serving a life sentence in Canada for participation in the killing of Adelard Bouchard, Lachine, Canada, taxi driver, is underway here. Mrs. McDonald's husband was hanged for the crime. A group of Westchester notables who knew Mrs. McDonald when she lived here have undertaken a search through detective agencies for the man who was with the McDonalds the night of the shooting. It has been claimed he did the actual killing.

Gorilla's Inner Organs Like Child of 12 or 14

Jacksonville, Fla., April 23 (AP)—A physician is authority for the statement that the inner organs of Miss Congo, a gorilla, could not be distinguished from those of a 12 or 14-year-old girl. The animal, said to be the only female gorilla in captivity, appeared almost human in many respects, in the opinion of Dr. Ralph N. Green, Jacksonville.

Ilion colitis, a disease common among humans, caused Miss Congo's death in Sarasota. The gorilla was valued at $150,000 by her owner, John Ringling, circus millionaire. She was captured in 1925 by Ben Burbridge, Jacksonville explorer and big game hunter, on the slopes of Mt. Kiva, Belgian Congo. She subsequently became a pet of the Burbridge family.

Miss Congo died holding a hand of her "godmother," Mrs. James D. Burbridge, Jacksonville.

Dr. Green recalled that Dr. Robert M. Yerkes, member of the Yale faculty, gave Miss Congo intelligence tests in 1925. The animal was found to possess a brain equal to that of a 6 or 7-year-old child. The scientist said Miss Congo was about that age when examined.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

VATICAN BARS 'POLITICS'

Rome, April 25 (INS)—The Vatican has taken a far-reaching decision to keep the church out of politics and to prevent Catholic prelates from interfering in the affairs of state, it was learned today.

The Vatican is reviving the old rule which forbids its own officials from partaking in official state ceremonies and from participating in social affairs where they are liable to meet representatives of the state.

Terrible Eczema Goes Quickly

Strong, Powerful Yet Safe, Surgeon's Prescription Called Moone's Emerald Oil Has Astonished Physicians

Here is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now supplied by druggists at drilling cost, that will go more towards helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin disease than anything you've ever tried.

In skin diseases its action is like less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped, the eruptions dry up and scale off in very few days. The same is true of barber's itch, scaly psoriasis, salt rheum, pimples and blackheads. Even troublesome cases of dandruff disappear after a few treatments.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at any modern drug store. It is safe to use, and cannot be one of the ingredients noted above is next to impossible. All druggists can supply you at any time.

FASTER TRAINS ON DAYLIGHT SCHEDULE

Important schedule changes, with trains speeded up in many cases, will go into effect Sunday on the New Haven and the B. & A. following in connection with the readjustments made necessary by daylight saving.

New time tables are now ready for distribution at the ticket offices of the South Station and way stations. Among the most important New Haven road changes are the following:

The trains leaving New York for Boston at 5:45 a. m. and arriving here at 10:30 a. m. will leave New York at 5:05 p. m. and reach Boston at 9:50 p. m., making time ruling out 5 hours 45 minutes and 5 hours 40 minutes respectively. These trains leaving the Grand Central station, New York, for Providence at 7:45 and 8:45 a. m. and 5:05 p. m. will not be changed as they do not run on daylight saving time.

The 4:30 p. m. train, Providence to Boston, will run Saturdays only and will leave Providence at 5 p. m. after the 16th p. m. train. Sept. gives only. Providence to Boston, will operate daily, leaving Providence at 7:30 p. m. instead of 7:00 p. m.

All B. & A. trains will start one hour earlier, to conform with the daylight saving change, except the Death Waves Made by Broadcasting Set and a Crystal

Princeton, N. J., April 25 (AP)—University scientists have been producing death waves with a miniature radio broadcasting set, and a quartz crystal. The "supersonic wave penetrates the walls of a living cell and destroys all matter within without harming the walls. It was tried on a frog's blood corpuscles.

through trains to and from the West.

There are many changes of a few minutes in the schedules, in addition to the one-hour daylight saving change, and commuters are advised to consult the new guides. A new sleeper service will leave Boston daily at 10 p. m. for Albany. Limousine stops between these two cities. The Albany morning express will leave Boston at 7:30 and the Albany express at 12 noon.

RADIO STARS TO APPEAR AT SOMERVILLE REUNION

Fiorello Zonerali Conn, who has been heard at various times over the radio in Irish jigs and reels, will appear at the second annual "get together" dinner and reunion of the Somerville Young Progressive Association at K. of C. Hall, Somerville, May 9.

In addition to the Emerald Gem, the committee has rounded a long list of other artists, who will entertain.

SINCLAIR MAY CLEAR UP BOND MYSTERY

Washington, April 25 (INS)—The Senate's inquiry into the Continental Trading Company's mysterious $2,650,000 Liberty bond fund entered its closing stage today with the Senate public lands committee having found a total of $2,377,109 of the "slush fund" bonds.

The story of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil of Indiana, that he received $750,500 of the Continental bonds and held them in secret trust for six years accounted for a major portion of the missing funds. There remained only $293,000 of the bonds to be accounted for and these apparently went to Harry F. Sinclair, subpoenaed to testify next Tuesday. Sinclair may wind up this phase of the inquiry by telling a complete story.

The bond inquiry has disclosed that four men—Sinclair, Stewart, Henry M. Blackmer and James E. O'Neil, shared almost equally in the division of Continental's $3,000,000 fund. Henry Smith Osler, president of Continental, received $61,000 in commissions. The other known sources were: Sinclair, $493,000; Stewart, $750,500; Blackmer, $762,109, and O'Neil $900,000.

A Suggestion

TO MEN

which women are invited to read

WHEN you buy your new General Motors car, why not keep your present car instead of trading it in?

Too many families are left marooned when the man of the house drives off in the morning. A woman needs a car for her business, too—the business of managing a home.

A car that is her very own will conserve her time and provide the hours in the open air that are the best health insurance for children. It will enable her to shop more economically; to see the friends who live at a distance; to keep in touch with widespread opportunities.

Buy a new car as you have planned, but keep your present car for your family.

The General Motors line offers a new car "for every purse and purpose," and ownership is made very easy through the convenience of the GMAC Time Payment Plan.

Another Suggestion

Another thrifty way to have a second car is to buy a good used car. General Motors dealers invite you to see their stocks of used cars and offer the convenience of the GMAC Plan of Purchase.

ROCKY AND HAMBONE IN BRILLIANT DEBATE

CULTURE seems to have swept fistic circles. A veracious correspondent sends in the following stenographic report of a joint debate between Hambone Kelly of South Boston and Rocky Stone of Blue Hill ave. Our correspondent says he cannot give the name of the joint, for reasons best known to the police, but he avers that the entire membership of the Roxbury Ethical, Euclid and Euseless Club was present.

Nick Flatley

The subject picked by the two boys was: "Resolved, that Maeterlinck's Apotheosis of Man is Maeterlinck's Apotheosis of Man." The verdict was a draw, that agreement having been reached, provided both men were on their feet at the finish. Both were on their own and each other's.

The orators were introduced by Professor Wat War, whose researches into the uses and history of juniper have made him famous from the Canadian to the Mexican border, and even out to the twelve mile limit. Their remarks follow:

Rocky Stone—Huh, maybe I do pull a lot o' them clown stunts, but geez, that ain't no reason for them bananas not givin' a guy a crack at one of them bums that's up there grabbin' a lotta dough. Say I could flatten some of them palookas so quick but watthehell—did you hear that one about the Scotchman, ha, ha, pretty good, hey, an' if this bozo Hambone is lookin' for trubble, he's in the right place—don't mind if I do, buddy, at that. Reminds me of the story—say if the sap that threw that pretzel had two more ears he couldn't hear half of what I think of him. They try to tell you that us guys is a lotta roughnecks, but, geez, you don't see none of us goin' to work, at that. An' gentlemen, if I am elected, I'll do you all good. Don't mind if I do, buddy.

Hambone Kelly—Just a lotta applesauce. If some of them dumbbells that I smack had sense enough to fall where they should, probably I'd be trainin' for this guy Tunney myself. It's all in the barrel, boys, an' don't let none tell you different. They pick some beezark what takes a good pitcher, an' they rides him along, and whereinell do guys like me an' Rocky get off? I ask you. I can smack this poor turkle for a row of hockshops, an' I'll wipe that silly grin off his map in a minnute—well, this is the last one, an' that goes. Over the flats. Say who dragged us into this drum, anyhow. Their slower here then them Chicago referees countin' an' I guess I'll plaster Rocky one for fun—well, this one is the last an' that goes. Over the flats.

At this point there was a slight disturbance in the rear of the hall and both orators, sensing a fight, disappeared from the sight. The audience kept yelling for more, and got it as rapidly as Eddie could pass them around.

THE CHAMPION OF THEM ALL—LINDBERGH.

It is estimated that 20 per cent of the divorces filed next week will be caused by the amateur f——

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mrs. Dora Robillard, of Bellingham, Mass., R.F.D. 1, Box 17, says: "I had no digestion nor appetite. Sick headaches laid me up in bed three days at a time. I couldn't even eat light housework. Now I do all our cooking and washing."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

62 MILLION BOTTLES USED

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

One advantage of a robin over a husband is that, while it insists on broadcasting a lot of good advice, you don't HAVE to listen to it.

If seven hundred wives couldn't keep Solomon in the house when he heard that the Queen of Sheba was at the gate, what can ONE wife hope to do in a world full of sheiks?

This is the season when a wife spends all her time flitting around the shops, while her poor, unsuspecting husband is downtown straining every nerve to get through a hard day's work—in time for the baseball game.

If you listen to the average man's conversation you've got to learn to like automobiles—and, if you don't you may as well learn to like solitaire.

Nothing stirs up all a woman's sporting blood like trying to capture a man who is "through with women."

If companionate marriage comes in vogue it's going to be almost as tiresome looking around for a new husband, every year or so, as it is hunting around for another apartment every spring.

Working girls, it is said, spend most of their earnings on clothes, beauty parlors and other "husband bait." In other words, today as always, a woman's idea of "success in business" consists in finding some man who will marry her and take her OUT of it.

Half the average girl's life is spent in trying to make herself attractive—and the other half in trying to find something worth attracting.

THREE-MINUTE TRIPS

By TEMPLE MANNING

THE pockets in the small boy are proverbial. They contain everything under the sun, from worms for fishing, to rusty nails, from string for a kite to pennies, from candy and chewing gum to dog biscuit. Everything he lays his hands on goes into those bottomless pits. But, although we can easily understand and sympathize with his rather unsanitary habit of storing everything in his pocket, we might not understand so readily the custom of the women of the Congo. For they store everything in their coiffure just as the small lad stores everything in his pockets.

It has been called the "compendium coiffure," for obvious reasons. The Congo belles arrange their long, kinky hair in rolls and curls, and stick in their toil starthers. Here are the contents of the hair of a typical Congo beauty: Scissors, manicure implements, mirrors, daggers, beans, all sorts of crude surgical instruments, such as tweezers for extracting thorns, and so on. In this way she has at her finger-tips any of her beauty aids she desires. And this is, when you think it over, no stranger than the custom of our western women, who carry their beauty aids in their vanity bags.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

I'M just lazying along, listening to the robin's song, wondering how his notes can grow sweeter still as each year go. For, with each recurrent Spring, when I hear the robin sing, more and more of beauty fills all his happy tunes and trills; more and more of gladness floats skyward in his joyous notes, even as though his lyrics told of pictures past years left untold. I'm just lazying along, watching how the swallow throng, notice primroses that creep upward after Winter sleep. April has brought them back again. April, with boisterous winds' refrain; bluebells' bloom and robin's glee, April has brought them back to me! So I'm lazying along, taking heed of bud and song, glimpsing, through the robin's mirth, all the loveliness of Earth!

"EVERY CAR ON THE ROAD IS A USED CAR"

BULLOCK SEES EASY MONEY ON WAY

Charles J. Bullock, president of the Harvard Economic Society, told members of the society that some correction in the stock market seems almost unavoidable, based upon stiffening of money rates, raising of Federal Reserve rediscount rate, selling of investment securities by reserve banks and gold exports, but thinks money rates will decline again soon thereafter.

He believes it likely the New York Federal Reserve Bank will raise the rediscount rate to 4½ per cent in line with other banks but that the past experience showed leading reserve banks must move together in matter of rediscount rates. If government bonds continue weak tendency, indicating further Federal Reserve selling, he believes it not unlikely that the New York rate will be raised this week.

Commenting on current credit conditions, he said the present situation presents an unusual phenomenon. Last week, after commercial demand for credit reached a seasonal peak, the rediscount rate was raised in outside cities and government securities were sold by the Federal Reserve. This combination aggravated by gold exports, leads to the conclusion, said Mr. Bullock, that the Federal Reserve is bringing out what he characterized as "another dose of quieting drops" in the hope of regaining control of the collateral loans market.

He does not see how money rates can continue high long, believing that a 4½ per cent rediscount rate has always had the effect of stimulating gold imports. He therefore considers it likely that if New York goes to a 4½ per cent rate it will call forth an influx of gold that will lead to an easier money rate.

HARLEM SKYROCKETS ON LEASE POSSIBILITY

New York & Harlem, which skyrocketed to $489 against Tuesday's low of $270, is being bought on possibility of favorable results from tentative lease filtration. An executive officer of New York Central, lessee of the Harlem, says no negotiations are pending between Central Harlem minority stockholders or representatives thereof.

Harlem's stock consists of 173,121 shares of common and 26,579 preferred, both $50 par, of which New York Central owns 111,000 common and 22,859 preferred. The company's property, other than surface car line on Fourth and Park avenues, was leased to New York Central in 1873 for 99 years. Central paying 8e rental the Harlem rates, bond interest and dividends of 10 per cent, $5 a share annually, on both classes of stock.

The company has $12,000,000 of bonds outstanding. Under terms of New York Central lease it has expended $28,305,000 on improvements on Harlem property, not including $12,000,000 on Grand Central terminal structures, which stand approximately half on land by a corporation owned outright by the New York Central.

A minority stockholders' committee which has existed for many years recently invited Harlem stock to test in the courts its interpretation of the Harlem to continue support of the lease in accordance with a view lease. Theory of the committee was that the provision is that the lease executed in 1873 granted Central the use of the Harlem's property for railroad purposes only and that the courts will require the lessee to account to the lessor for income from other uses of the property. Office buildings, hotels and apartments have since been erected over a considerable portion of the ground the Harlem holds in fee.

B. & A. $5,700,000 BOND ISSUE IS UNOPPOSED

No opposition was expressed at the hearing today into the proposed issuance on public utilities to a petition of the Boston & Albany Railroad for approval of an issue of $5,700,000 in 30-year improvement bonds, carrying interest at the rate of 4½ per cent.

The bonds are to be applied to meet the cost of permanent betterments and improvements to the B. & A. road by New York Central.

METS' FOUR BALLERS GET AWAY

Leading Golf Stars In Three Golf Matches Carded for This Afternoon

Metropolitan Four Ball Golf League

TODAY'S MATCHES
Sandy Burr at Albemarle.
Bear Hill at Norfolk.
Wellesley at Belleview.

By BILL GRIMES

The Metropolitan Four Ball League opens its season this afternoon, with Sandy Burr battling Albemarle over the Newtonville course, Norfolk will entertain Bear Hill and Wellesley is scheduled to visit Bellevue.

Phillips Finlay, the long hitting freshman from Harvard, will be in the Sandy Burr lineup against Capt. Gerberg's Albemarlers, but Francis Quimet who was expected to play for Gus White's team will not be on hand.

If those eligible for Albemarle put in an appearance, Sandy Burr is going to encounter far more opposition than they expect. Freddie Wright and Jimmy Conroy are uncertainties. Wright, if he shows, will play with Freddie Corcoran, while Conroy was to have played with Jos Lynch.

BEST LOOKING MATCH

Joe Monahan will pair up with Finlay and Wright and Corcoran. This match should prove one of the best as Wright and Corcoran are both going well and far more familiar with the Albemarle course than Finlay and Monahan.

Capt. Billy McPhail of Norfolk expects to present a strong team against Bear Hill with three handicap players as Elmer Ward, Bob LeBlanc, Eddie Maher and Frank McCabe battling for their wood club.

Due to the cold weather, the few fine matches at the Commonwealth Club, Rod Brown and Parker Whittemore against Phil Finlay and Eddie Monahan failed to produce the battle royal predicted. There were some wonderful shots, made during the round but on the whole the golf was very ragged.

Finlay was having trouble with his drives, due to a combination of the weather and a new driver and therefore was yards shot of his usual distances.

Although Finlay failed to startle the gallery with terrific drives, he did show that he possesses a fine steel game. He was chipping in great style and pulled himself out of many tough situations by fine approaches.

EXPERIENCE COUNTS

It was "old man" experience that brought Brown and Whittemore home a winner. The Country Club pair looked up beautifully. Brown made a couple of costly slips, one on the 12th and another on the 16th which proved the gate for a Finlay-Murphy win but he had performed well on the outward holes which more than offset his errors.

Rod Brown came through with one of the greatest shots of the match at the 3d hole when after a perfectly placed drive, he spooned his way home and dropped his putt for a birdie and the first win of the match.

Karl Wildermuth Is Georgetown's Hope

Washington, D. C., April 25—Georgetown will have three, possibly four, potential winners in the individual events at the Penn relay carnival.

Karl Wildermuth, twice winner of the National A. A. U. sprint crown, will make his college debut in varsity competition in the 100-yard dash.

He will be opposed by Simpson, Ohio State sophomore; Hester, of Michigan, winner of the event for the last two years; Kriss, of Ohio State; Polwell Scull, of Penn; Jimmy Quinn and Jimmy Baker, of Holy Cross, the last named winner of the intercollegiate indoor 70-yard title.

Dave Adriance, intercollegiate indoor shot-put champion and holder of the record of 48 feet 8 inches, will be a favorite to win, though he was beaten in the same event a year ago by John F. Anderson, of Cornell.

Creth Hines, Georgetown's interscholastic champion who holds record holder, hasn't handled the steel-tipped spear in competition since he set the record of 205 feet 6 inches last May.

A year ago in the Penn relays he couldn't do better than 173 feet and he was beaten by Phil Northrup of Michigan.

Erle Lofstetrom will carry Georgetown's colors in the 400-meter hurdles.

Sts. Peter and Paul in Field

The SS. Peter and Paul A. A. of South Boston will be represented this season by one of the strongest semi-pro teams in the State. The management has secured the services of some of the better-known players in collegiate and semi-pro circles, and it is the intention of arranging games on a home and home basis with the best teams in New England. Cambridge Latin Received Grid Cup Today

The 1927 football team of Cambridge High and Latin received the Suburban League football championship cup this morning in the school hall. Latin won the league title after first Everett high then Newton high were forced to forfeit games because of ineligible players.

The trophy, donated to the league by the H. D. Foss Co., was presented by Charles H. Rice, member of that firm. The football team assembled on the stage, with members of the Foss company and the Cambridge school committee, while in the auditorium were the students.

N. E. PREPARES FOR MEET WITH MIDDLEBURY

Northeastern track team is preparing for the Middlebury meet at Huntington Field, Saturday. The Vermonters are meeting the Huskies for the first time, and so far their strength is a mystery.

The Husky coaches, however, expect Middlebury will provide more competition in the field events than Boston University did Saturday. On the other hand, Northeastern is expected to make a better showing on the track than against the Terriers.

Northeastern is counting on Bill Ricker high point scorer in the U. M. meet to continue his great work in the discus, shotput and javelin. Phil Hamilton, the veteran all-around performer, is also counted ineligible, and his understudy, Ricker, will have more responsibility on his broad shoulders than ever before.

George Dammon, a promising high jumper, was also declared ineligible. But the Huskies have Al Monahan, one of the best in New England, and are not worrying about points in the high jump. Capt. Jerry Tarbuck, who went out of condition in the B. U. meet on account of a strained back, will not compete in the low hurdles, but will be counted on the high jump and high hurdles. Maxwell McAvoy, a sophomore, won the low hurdle against B. U. and Tatton can pass Mooring in the broad jump.

With John swoops against B. U. in the discus, with Ricker Stratton and Cotton in the javelin, with Dammon, Ricker and Viner, mid-jumpers, with Martin, Cheney and Lombardi, the Huskies are confident of a good shooting Saturday in these events, on the track Stanley Davis, Capt. Appello, Ed Hall, Ed Thompson, Stuart Thompson, Ray McCusker, Francis Powers and Paul Burke are expected to shine.

Power Trust Hires Professors to Act as Mouthpieces; Educational Freedom Impaired, Government Reports

"I WOULD ADVISE any public utility manager, who lives in a community where there is a college, to get the professor of economics . . . and give him a retainer of one or two hundred dollars per year."

(Managing Director Aylesworth of National Electric Light Association.)

"THE COMMITTEE HAS before it a list of twenty-two books, eight of which are in preparation, fourteen soon to be initiated, and all of which will represent authorship of unquestioned impartiality and scholarship."

(1925 report of Committee on Co-operation with Educational Institutions.)

"SOME OF THESE 'information bureaus' have succeeded in having removed from school textbooks the statements concerning public utilities which they considered unfair, biased, incorrect or misleading."

(Federal Trade Commission Report on "Electric Power Industry," Vol. II., page 244.)

"THE INDUSTRY SHOULD present its case openly. Truly no greater calamity could happen either to industry or to the public than for educators, or educational institutions, to become the paid mouthpieces of economic groups."

(Report of Federal Trade Commission on "Electric Power Industry," Vol. II., pages 240-1.)

COLLEGE professors are getting retainers from electric power companies. In return many of them are teaching what the power companies want them to teach. And the power companies, in their conventions, are laughing openly over the ease with which they are making mouthpieces of the intellectual guides of the youth of the land.

How do we know that?

It is made perfectly clear in the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the Power Trust.

FIRST, let us all admit that there are engineering professors of great ability and distinction who are properly retained by the power companies. Their advice, as consulting experts, is worth everything that is paid for it. The ability to earn outside retainers of this kind is a powerful inducement to able engineers to enter the underpaid teaching profession.

The justifiable type of retainer is illustrated in this quotation from the Federal Trade Commission's report:

"The Executive Committee of the National Electric Light Association in May, 1920, decided to create an 'advisory board,' to be composed of Professor Elihu Thompson, scientist, educator, inventor in the electrical field and director of the Thompson Laboratory of the General Electric Company; Professor C. F. Scott, Professor of Electrical Engineering, Sheffield Scientific School of Yale, and Professor A. E. Kennelly, Professor of Electrical Engineering and Chairman of the Faculty, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It was 'stated that the association could receive the advisory help of these men for the nominal sum of $15,000 a year.'"

THESE men were retained. The "nominal sum" of $5,000 a year to each of them was an addition of over 50 per cent to their professional salaries, but it is not an unreasonable expenditure for the power companies to make nor for these professors of engineering to receive.

Professors Thompson, Scott and Kennelly were big fellows. But watch the power companies go out after the little professors of economics in small colleges everywhere, with the purpose of getting them to say what the power companies want them to say.

The Federal Trade Commission (page 238) tells us what Managing Director Aylesworth, of the National Electric Light Association, advised in an address to the Mid-West Utilities Convention in 1923:

"I would advise any manager here who lives in a community where there is a college to get the Professor of Economics interested in your problems. Have him lecture on your subject to his classes. Once in a while it will pay you to take such men, getting five or six hundred dollars or a thousand dollars a year, and give them a retainer of one or two hundred dollars a year for the privilege of letting you study and consult with them.

"For how, in Heaven's name, can we do anything in the schools of the country with the young people growing up if we have not first sold the idea of education to the college professor?"

A poor teacher in a jerk-water college getting six hundred dollars a year was to be offered a godsend of two hundred dollars by the local electric light company manager, who will "study and consult" with this sympathetic soul in the professorial chair. Aylesworth calls it selling the idea of education to the professor. IT MIGHT BE CALLED BUYING THE IDEA OF EDUCATION INTO HIM.

HAVING got these professors lined up, the Power Trust set out to fix the textbooks to suit themselves. The Chairman of the Public Relations Section in his report to the 1925 convention said:

"Schoolbooks in wide use all over the country have recently been analyzed. Many of them contain startling misstatements about public utilities. It is high time to be busy in furnishing correct information to the pupils in our schools wherever and whenever it can properly be done."

When he spoke those words, "books with correct information" were already being prepared by the Power Trust. The Chairman of the Committee on Co-operation with Educational Institutions told the same 1925 convention:

"The committee has before it a list of twenty-two books, eight of which are in preparation, fourteen of which will shortly be initiated, and all of which will represent authorship of unquestioned impartiality and scholarship."

One of them was "a textbook on the fundamentals of the electric light and power industry by one of the leading educators of the country, in collaboration with a prominent public utility executive." The name of the "prominent educator" is, of course, the one that goes on the book, so that the public will think that it represents "authorship of unquestioned impartiality and scholarship."

THEY are not only putting into schools and colleges the textbooks they want, but they are also removing the textbooks they do not want. According to the Federal Trade Commission (Page 244):

"There are nineteen local speakers' bureaus in the country. Eighteen are carrying on active work in the schools. Some bureaus have succeeded in having removed from school textbooks the statements concerning public utilities which they considered unfair, biased, incorrect or misleading."

Would the jerk-water professor gentlemen like to know what is really expected of them for their retainers?

They can hear it in the words of the Chairman of the Public Relations Section, addressing the Annual Convention of the National Electric Light Association in 1926.

The Chairman refers to the well-known Bible story of Balaam, a Mesopotamian prophet, who, when summoned by the Moabite king Balak to curse Israel, actually blessed it. The Chairman reports that they are getting the professors, who used to curse them through criticism, to now bless them through praise. Here is his picture of the professors:

"Now, the professor, if you please, gentlemen, regards himself as being inspired by Jehovah, as having had put into his mouth by Jehovah the blessings and the curses which he must give. If truly he listens to the words of the Lord, then what seem to be the curses that he pronounces may turn out to be our blessings; what seem to be blessings may turn out to be our curses.

"The one suggestion I would offer is that the prophet is most amenable to inspiration. If we can be sure that we have got hold, with reference to our industry, of the will of Jehovah, perhaps we may also play the part of Jehovah in putting into the mouth of the particular Balaam whom we are asking to go forth, something of the truth which we would like, AND WHICH WE HAVE A RIGHT TO EXPECT, to have prophesied."

LEST in our indignation we be unduly harsh in judging these people and these methods, let us withhold our judgment and listen to what the Federal Trade Commission says in its report (Page 240):

"The right of the industry to present its case before the bar of public opinion is unquestioned, provided such presentation is made openly in the name of the industry, and therefore without even a semblance of deception such as may be involved in subsidizing authors, teachers, universities or research organizations in order that inspired textbooks or other materials may be given greater credibility because issued over the names of supposedly impartial writers, research organizations or institutions of learning.

"Where this is done the general public may well question whether the scientific attitude and integrity of established institutions of higher learning are not being undermined. Truly no greater calamity could happen either to industry or to the public than for educators, or educational institutions, to become the paid mouthpieces of economic groups."
